

We will continue to send out a morning email briefing to serve as a broad weather outlook for the greater San Francisco Bay Area through at least Feb 8. If updates are made, an afternoon email briefing will also be issued. Additional forecast briefings will be disseminated based on partner request and/or weather demands.

Impacts Summary

- Rain Today: Some very light rain or sprinkles will move into the area this evening. Amounts of just a few hundredths of an inch are possible. Not expected to be high impact, but could affect road travel with slick roads and any outdoor venues/activities, especially north of the Bay.
- Dangerous Beach Conditions: High surf is expected at the area beaches today and then a heightened threat of rip currents and sneaker waves at beaches on Thursday through Saturday. With the near record highs and many visitors to the area, there will be a concern for dangerous beach conditions.

Forecast Confidence:

- Moderate-High confidence for rain chances on Wed
- High confidence for dry weather Thurs through the weekend with daytime highs 10 degrees above normal on Sunday, near record highs.

Timing:

- Wednesday: Light rain will move into the north bay after 3 PM and into the South Bay after 5 PM.

Current Watches/Warnings/Advisories:

- There are none in effect.
- For a real-time updated list of all current watch/warning/advisories:
<http://1.usa.gov/1boSTTW>

7 Day Area Forecast for the Greater San Francisco Bay Area:

For the latest forecast, go to Point and Click

Today: A 30 percent chance of rain after 3pm. Mostly cloudy, with highs mostly in the upper 50s. East wind around 6 mph .

Tonight: A 40 percent chance of rain, mainly before 10pm. Cloudy, then gradually becoming partly cloudy, with lows mainly in the middle 40s. Southeast wind between 3 and 6 mph.

Thursday: Mostly sunny, with highs mainly in the lower 60s. Northeast wind between 4 and 8 mph.

Thursday Night: Mostly clear, with lows mostly in the middle 40s. Calm wind becoming east around 5 mph.

Friday: Mostly sunny, with highs mainly in the lower 60s. East wind 4 to 6 mph becoming north.

Friday Night: Mostly clear, with lows mainly in the upper 40s.

Saturday: Sunny, with highs mostly in the middle 60s.

Saturday Night: Mostly clear, with lows mostly in the upper 40s.

Sunday: Sunny, with highs mostly in the upper 60s.

Sunday Night: Clear, with lows near 50.

Monday: Sunny, with highs mainly in the lower 70s.

Monday Night: Clear, with lows near 50.

For a more detailed forecast for your location: www.weather.gov/sanfrancisco

Weather Summary

A weak system will bring some sprinkles or light rain showers into the Bay Area late this afternoon and into the evening. This will not have high impacts. The greater concerns will be dangerous beach conditions with a larger swell moving towards the coast that will produce high surf today and then rip currents and sneaker wave threats into the weekend. There is a high confidence at this time that dry and very warm conditions will set up across the area for the weekend and Monday with near record high temperatures possible.